SALE OF STRATEGIC LANDS POLICY
Council Policy No. 134/17

PURPOSE:

The Sale of Strategic Lands policy is intended to utilize local resources and businesses to facilitate the sale of municipal lands held for strategic initiatives or offered for sale outside of existing policies.

BACKGROUND POLICY:

The City of Fort St. John has three current policies regarding the disposal of lands. The policies were developed to address lands declared surplus to the City’s need.

- Sale of Municipal Property – Council Policy No. 17/00
- Sale of Municipal Property with Special Development Potential – Council Policy No. 18/00
- Sale of Large Block Properties – Council Policy No. 50/00

POLICY GOAL:

The goal of the Sale of Strategic Lands policy is to develop a fair and equitable process that will allow the municipality to utilize local realtors to sell properties that have been held for strategic purposes. These lands are likely to require national or international market exposure through professional real estate services and MLS listings. The MLS® mark and associated logos identify professional services rendered by REALTOR® members of the Canadian Real Estate Association (CREA) to affect the purchase, sale and lease of real estate as part of a cooperative selling system.

PROCEDURE:

The City of Fort St. John holds lands for strategic initiatives. Some of these lands are held with specific development or planning criteria associated with them such as energy conservation, housing style and density, future school sites and other strategies. For example the City has developed a downtown revitalization plan that includes the development of key parcels of land held in the public trust for this purpose.

In order to meet the intent of the City’s master plans, some key parcels of land require professional marketing and real estate services.

Therefore, lands that are for sale and that have strategic objectives associated with them will be offered to local real estate brokerages through a bid process for the right to be the listing agent.
